Ford Tricked Into Anti-Jew War By Tsarist Reactionaries Is Norman Hapgood Charge

Claim Auto King Engaged "Black Hundred" Investigation

NEW YORK — How Henry Ford was tricked into his campaign against the Jews by Tsarist sympathizers in the U. S., and actually engaged the former Russian secret service Black Hundred investigator, Boris Brasol, and C. C. Daniels, a New York lawyer and brother of the former secretary of the navy, Thomas Daniels, as heads of his "Anti Jew" campaign, is disclosed in a series of articles by Norman Hapgood beginning this month in World's International.

The articles are supported by documents, photostatic copies of letters, records and statements of executives showing that the "Anti Jew campaign," once launched upon, was conducted with thoroughness.

Explaining the reasons behind the publication of the articles, Mr. Hapgood declared:

"I am filled with bitter irony that in a country of liberty, the wealth of which is the result of the world should be so easily brought to arouse racial hatreds and to engage in a campaign of bloodshed against the same kind of people who have made the same kind of progress in the same kind of country. That Mr. Ford, who has made good does not understand these things."

Naturally, the charge Ford with the Tsarist reactionaries is sorious business; it will be supported with abundant documents. Ford does not understand these things.

Bakers Go Back; Win War Here

Eight Masters Sign Contracts; One Concession Granted By Men

Madison's labor war came to an end last night when eight of the 10 master bakers signed the union men's contract at Labor hall. All of the men working in the eight shops who signed the agreement went back to work during the night or early this morning. The Globe and Federal bakeries are the only two shops that have failed to sign the contract with the workmen, but it is expected that they will do so today.

Union men accepted 10 cents an hour additional for night work instead of the 20 cents that they originally demanded in the contract. Other than this concession the union men go back at their old wages. The price of bread will in all probability go up from 1 to 3 cents due to the advance in the price of flour and shortening, local bakers say. This advance in price is not due to the laborers wages as is commonly thought, but to the advanced price of material. Madison grocers are making a profit of 3 to 5 cents on a loaf of bread, bakers declare, more than grocers in any other city in the state. It is hoped that the grocers will take the advanced wholesale price of bread without raising their retail price.

Madison merchants declare that the greatest profit made on bread is two and a half cents a loaf. This statement was made this morning by a grocer, in contradiction to the statement made a few days ago that Madison grocers were making from 3 to 5 cents a loaf.

$1300 Fine, 6 Months Jail for Mrs. Wrend

Woman Found Guilty By Jury Is Given Stiff Sentence

Found guilty by a jury in superior court of sale and possession of illicit liquor, destruction of evidence and maintaining a public nuisance, Mrs. Sam Wrend, 407 Oakridge ave., was sentenced to six months in jail and fined $1,300 by Judge A. C. Hoppmann today.

This is the first time that state or federal authorities have been able to fasten a conviction on Mrs. Wrend or her husband, although they have been in court several times before. Wrend will be tried separately.

Trial of Gaspari Tanilla, charged with violation of the state dry act, began today with selection of the jury. Five similar cases are pending.

Charging that he had information that the jury has been tampered with by prohibition agents, Oscar Toebeas, attorney for Mrs. Wrend, demanded the privilege of questioning the jury as Judge Hoppmann prepared to give his final instructions. After all but one of the jurors said they had not discussed the case in any way, and the one declared that he had not been influenced by hearing the discussion, Mr. Toebeas announced that he was satisfied.

Street Car Law New City Aim

Tentative Ordinance Asks For Arbitration Board, Fare Schedule

A definite step toward the solution of the street car company's argument with the city over street car zone paving was taken last night at a meeting of the special committee having this matter in hand. The committee instructed City Atty. Roman A. Heilman to draw up a tentative ordinance as a working basis for a settlement. The ordinance will contain provision for:

- 1.—Relieving the company of future paving costs.
- 2.—Provide a fare schedule.
- 3.—Appointment of a committee of five to arbitrate matters. Two members will be from the council, two from the company, and these four to select a fifth.
- 4.—A jury trial at any time to decide the necessity of purchase by the city of the railway company.
- 5.—Repeal of the present paving ordinances as they relate to the street car company.

These provisions were tentatively approved by the committee, and another meeting will be called soon which the company officials will be asked to attend. Their approval or disapproval of the ordinance can be expressed at that time. The committee at its next meeting also will discuss the new ordinance.

The commission, provided for in the proposed ordinance, would have the power to dispose of all funds expended for maintenance. These funds would amount to the annual earnings of the company in excess of $80,000, which is 8 per cent upon its investment.

No date was set for the next meeting. It is hoped to have a report ready for the next meeting of the council May 26. The council is anxious to speed up the paving work on University ave. and Johnson st.

Is Geraldine Slipping? She Gets A Great Ovation; Gets Over $15 00 a Concert

Geraldine Farrar

Is Geraldine Farrar "slipping?"

There were many in the big audience at the Parkway last night who, after hearing the famous singer, maintained that she has "gone back." They argued that she is far from being the singer that she was in the days of the height of her career at the Metropolitan in New York. Indeed, it is pointed out that because she has gone back, Miss Farrar was compelled to surrender her position as star of the Metropolitan opera to Madame Jeritza of Vienna, who will sing the big roles next winter.

But then, Geraldine should worry. She is now on a concert tour that will bring her a fortune. The Parkway management had to guarantee $15,000 for the concert. Miss Farrar is guaranteed that amount and gets a percentage, in addition, on the receipts of the house. Miss Farrar sings five times a week. She will sing at Dubuque tonight.

Miss Farrar was given an ovation by the Parkway crowd last night. Whether her voice is as good as ever or not, Miss Farrar radiated personality. She, was gracious with her encores, and when she concluded her program by singing a number from her favorite opera, La Tosca, the audience broke forth in a storm of applause. The applause was kept up for several minutes and Miss Farrar, clad in a big white fur opera coat, ready to take her limousine for her private car, came back for another encore. She sat down at the piano, and, playing her own accompaniment, sang Annie Laurie.

Miss Farrar wore a beautiful gown. The bodice was embroidered in silver and brilliants. The skirt was a fine, silver cloth, with a long cluster of midnight blue flowers at the right side at the waist line and clusters of the same flowers in red there and there down the tulle train. She carried a red ostrich fan and wore beautiful jewels.

By P. H. J.

Conclusively proving all that was expected of her, Geraldine Farrar impressed her audience and cap-

Flames Sweep Rome Hospital; 16 Are Killed

Panic Seizes 5,000 Inmates Of Historic Santo Spirito

(By The Associated Press) ROME—A disastrous fire swept the historic hospital of Santo Spirito, one of the most ancient charitable institutions in Rome, early today. Collapse of the pavement isolated the chronic ward.

Sixteen bodies had been extracted from the ruins at 7:30 o'clock. The institution accommodated nearly 5,000 and included a hospital lunatic asylum, foundling home and a refuge for aged and infirm. The fire broke out at midnight in the laundry. It spread rapidly to the neighboring wards, each containing 30 chronic sufferers or infirm patients who were seized with panic.

The shrieks of the sufferers mingled with the crackling of the flames while the atmosphere became dense with smoke.

The electric lights were extinguished, adding to the horror. As the immense wooden beams of the hospital fell there was a grinding noise and the pavement collapsed burying 20 of the chronic patients and rendering access to the wards impossible.

The hospital is situated on the bank of the River Tiber, not far from the Vatican grounds. It was founded by Pope Innocent III in the 12th century, enlarged by Innocent IV in the 13th, and rebuilt under Sixtus IV, in the 15th.

Identified As Bandit Is Charge

William Throl Held On Charge of Shooting Van Order

Charged with shooting and robbing William Van Order, Appleton salesman, who lies at St. Mary's hospital, with a bullet in his left lung, William Throl, 26, was arraigned today in superior court. He pleaded not guilty and was remanded to the jail in default of $5,000 bail.

Throl was arrested last night by police after a two day investigation under the direction of Chief Shaughnessy and Capt. Harry Davenport. Police say he was identified today as the man who shot Van Order by John Clark, who was with the wounded man when he was held up early Tuesday morning as he was sitting in his automobile.

When arrested, police charge, Throl had in his possession a gray suit and cap which corresponded with the apparel worn by the bandit. He is about 5 feet 10 inches tall, the same height as the gunman who shot Van Order.

Suspicion first pointed to Throl yesterday when police learned of a conversation the accused man had with Horace L. Bloom, rooming at 931 Jenner st., where Clark also lives.

Bloom told police that he first met Throl in the second hand store of Joe Kuhn, near the Northwestern depot, when he bought a suitcase from Throl. The man's demeanor and questions concerning the penalty for killing a man in a robbery aroused the curiosity of Bloom and he reported the conversation to police. He said that Throl told him that he had been in the scene of the shooting and that a policeman had asked him if he had a gun.

Under questioning by Chief Shaughnessy and Captain Davenport, Throl admitted that he has just finished serving a prison term in a western city. His parents live in Madison, according to the chief, although he has not made his home in the city for several years.

Pinchot Win Second Blow To Old Guard

Women Aided in Defeat Of Organization Candidate

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The results of the republican primary elections in Pennsylvania have made a profound impression in political Washington. No matter what the complete count may show, the fact is foremost in the minds of politicians that the republican organization in the Keystone state has had a decided set-back.

Standing alone the Pinchot showing might not be markedly significant, but coming on top of the victory of Albert J. Beveridge over Sen. Harry S. New in the Indiana senatorial primaries, it indicates a state of dissatisfaction with the old guard element likely to have a material bearing upon republican chances in the important congressional elections this year, when more than a third of the senate and the entire membership of the house will be elected.

"The results in Pennsylvania indicate a political revolution," said Sen. Borah. "Pinchot's victory is the most remarkable political revolution of the decade."

Sen. Lenroot, republican, said: "I am delighted with the victory of Pinchot. You ask if I regard it as a rebuke to the administration. I do not so consider it. The women had a great deal to do with the result. If the reactionaries think the country has gone reactionary, they are mistaken."

Senator Capper of Kansas, chairman of the agricultural bloc, said: "It is very encouraging to see Pennsylvania break away from the control of the machine crowd."

Lead Steadily Growing (By the Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA — A steady increase in his lead over Atty. Gen. George E. Alter for the republican nomination for governor was maintained today by Gifford Pinchot, prominent in the Progressive party in 1912 and 1914.

Pinchot jumped into the lead last night when about 7,000 of the 7,934 districts in the state had reported; unofficial returns and nearly every additional district heard from during the night increased his majority.

With 426 districts missing Pinchot today had a lead of 7,639, the unofficial vote in the 7,508 districts reporting giving him a total of 495,442 against 487,805 for Alter. As most of the missing districts are in sections where Pinchot showed the greatest strength, his advantage was expected to grow.

Alter's supporters have conceded Pinchot's nomination and estimated today of his margin of victory ran from ten to twenty thousand.

Women played a big part in the result, Mrs. Pinchot, in a statement today said it was the women who had brought about the victory.

State Battles Writ Aimed at Rate On Coal

Will Fight Request Of Michigan For Injunction

The Railroad commission is preparing with Atty. Gen. William J. Morgan to contest the action of the Chamber of Commerce of Marquette, Mich., asking the U. S. district court to grant a permanent injunction restraining enforcement of the commission order reducing freight rates on coal shipped to points within Wisconsin.

In its answer to the complaint, the state will argue that there can be no relation between regulation of rates on a product shipped between points within a state, and regulation of rates on a product shipped from its borders.

Contention is made by Michigan shippers that through its reduction, the Wisconsin commission has discriminated against out-of-state carriers who must pay higher rates on their products sent from points across the border in Michigan.

As a result of the reduction order on coal rates, which became effective May 10, interior points in Wisconsin had freight costs cut from a few cents to nearly $2 a ton. Shipments affected by the cut are all made from lake ports.

Latest Radio Receiving Set Has No Aerial

Novel Idea Is Tested In Inside Office Of Loop Building

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO — A new type of radio receiving device without aerial, electrical power line connection, or any assisting apparatus except several yards of wire tacked on the back of the cabinet which houses the set, was announced today by B. F. Miessner, radio engineer.

Reception of signals is accomplished by a super-amplifier which, magnifies the signal about 50 times more than the ordinary three tube amplifier, rendering it fully as audible as signals received with aerial antennae. The receiving set is simplified, having only a button to turn on the power, generated in small storage batteries also and a dial on which the wave lengths are marked.

In demonstration today, signals from KYW Broadcasting station, Chicago, were received in an inside office of a large loop building. "It would work just as well if the cabinet were buried fifty feet underground," Mr. Miessner said.

"I was a great sufferer from kidney and liver derangements for several years. The pains in the back were almost more than I could endure, and the whole digestive system was upset. County Board Will Choose Heads Monday

Re-arrangement of Offices Planned; Briggs May Go

The election of a new chairman to succeed T. G. Lingard, the appointment of regular committees and the shifting of county officials' quarters on the third floor of the county court house to make room for Judge-elect Ole A. Stolen will constitute the chief business of the county board, when it meets next Monday night at 7 in the supervisors' room for its regular spring session. The session will probably last four or five days.

Judge A. C. Hoppmann will retain his chambers on the second floor, according to present plans, and the offices of the highway commission will be altered to accommodate Judge Stolen, who takes office July 1. The highway commission force, it is thought, may be moved to the first floor into the offices now occupied by the county assessor of incomes, H. R. Briggs, an official paid by the state. It is believed that a couple of rooms may be found in some office building if no place can be found in the court house for Mr. Briggs and his staff.

Saturday, May 27, the first board will be torn from President Birge's old house next to the Y. M. C. A. in prospect of clearing a place for the new Memorial Union building.

Plans to hold the ceremony this Saturday were held up, but the consent of J. D. Phillips, business manager, was given yesterday to go ahead with the razing on May 27. A mass meeting of all students will be held at noon and Professor E. H. Gardner, and Dean Scott H. Goodnight will speak.

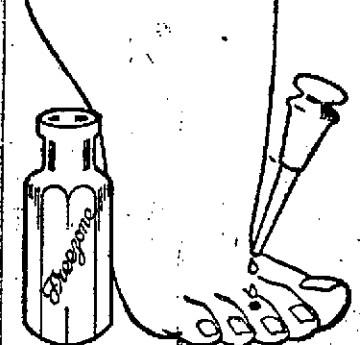

The plans are now in the hands of Leslie Gage '23, president of the Union board, who expects to have the University band out, and make the occasion one in which every student takes part.

Auto Owners Have Paid Fee Of $3,500,000

License Receipts $100,000 Than This Time Last Year

Automobile owners in Wisconsin paid to the state in license fees $3,500,000 or nearly twice as much as at this time last year, S. Hall, secretary of the Wisconsin Automobile Association, said today. Practically all of the increase is placed in the general fund, which remains until next year when it will be turned over to the state for use in the highway fund. About $4,000,000 will be available from this source for the work, Mr. Hall said.

Disappears With Car; Tells Garage Owner He Is Shell Shocked Veteran at Mendota

A. J. McLean, claiming to be a shell-shocked World War veteran, has mysteriously disappeared with a Ford sedan belonging to W. E. Flaherty, 311 W. Johnson st. According to Flaherty, who makes a business of renting automobiles, the young man asked to rent a car at 6:30 Tuesday evening. When asked for a safety deposit of $25, the man drew a check on the Wauwatosa State bank. He signed his name as A. J. McLean of the Mendota hospital, claiming to be under treatment for shell-shock.

McLean stated that he would be back in three hours, but he has failed to appear since. Mr. Flaherty said that when a car is out for more than 12 hours the renter must notify him. Officials at Mendota say that they are not caring for a man named McLean. Mr. Flaherty was unable to get in touch with the Wauwatosa bank officials. Although cars are often gone for longer than a day it is unusual for the renter to notify the garage. Mr. Flaherty said. Madison police are searching for the car.

NonAggression Pact Adopted By Genva Body

Sub-commission Acts; U. S. Again Turns Down Hague Bid

GENOA — The non aggression pact was adopted unanimously at a plenary meeting of the political sub-commission of the Genoa conference today. The pact was not signed but adopted in the form of a resolution, each state pledging itself to respect it.

The agreement for a truce provides for the appointment of a commission by the powers to examine again the divergencies existing between the Soviet government and other governments.

Sir Edward Grigg announced on behalf of the British delegation this afternoon that further advice had been received from the U. S. government and that it did not seem likely the U. S. would participate in the Hague meeting, at least until the scope of the meeting was better understood.

Commerce Was War Cause Is Harding View

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON — President Harding today told the Chamber of Commerce of the U. S. that the American government "did not want American industry destroyed to build up the commerce of some other land." The U. S. does not wish to hold aloof, he added, but we must always be right at home before we can go abroad on great problems.

The president said he doubted if there would ever have been a world war if America had commanded a merchant marine commensurate with the government's importance. Commerce had much to do with the bringing about of the World War and never once was it forgotten in the negotiation of peace, he added.

Building for the Future

IN its determination to continue rendering a maximum service to the 28 million people of 11 states, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is mindful of the fact that these people will need gasoline and lubricating oils in continually increasing quantities as the years go by.

During the past two years the number of automobiles registered in this territory shows an increase of over 35%.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) interprets efficient service to the community to mean the production of vast quantities of gasoline and lubricating oils of highest quality, for high quality can be of definite service to the consumer only when he can obtain the products he needs when he wants them.

The comprehensive distribution system maintained by this Company makes this possible, for the Company has brought into play every unit of its enormous manufacturing and distributing organization, from the refinery to the bulk station, to the dark green tank wagon that patrols the highways and byways.

As the need for increased facilities becomes apparent, the Board of Directors of this Company expands its activities, not merely to meet the immediate need but always to keep a step ahead.

It is this anticipatory service which has made this Company a leader in its field.

Tells of City P.T. Work at Convention

Mrs. Carrie Klempell Is Local Delegate To State Meet

FOND DU LAC — "Madison has 19 schools having parent-teacher associations, all but three of which are members of the state and national associations," declared Mrs. Carrie M. Klempell, president of the Madison school association, at the convention of Wisconsin Parent-Teachers' associations here this afternoon. "All of the associations are represented at the Madison Council of which F. C. Sharp is president."

Her report in part follows: "Much constructive work has been done the past year. In all the schools a pre-school day has been observed where mothers have brought children of pre-school age for examination, weighing, measuring, and to whom helpful suggestions have been given as to proper food, or attention called to defects in case there were defects needing medical attention. When all the schools have had their pre-school day, it is estimated about 600 children will have been examined."

Want To Know What Speech Looks Like? Then Go To High School Scientific Expo.

If you want to see what speech looks like, if you want to know how to get thin or how to get fat, go to the Wisconsin High School Scientific exhibit. There seems to be absolutely nothing the students down there can't tell you. And they've worked it all out themselves. It's there in exhibits, in black and white.

One of the most interesting exhibits is the expense of patent medicines. Analyses have been made by students, the exhibits fastened to the big cardboard posters, and explanations of them written below the exhibits.

Perhaps most remarkable exhibit is the high frequency apparatus built entirely by John Seastone, one of the students, and operated by him. Another interesting one is the motion picture apparatus. How to take successful pictures is clearly shown in the photograph section, in charge of two girls.

Exhibitors in the plant husbandry department are: William Foss, Eleanor Gilbertson, Theodore Frost, Elma Hall, Carol Ballard, Marion Sachtjen, Karl Dykema, Thomas Alberti, Lucile Norgard, William Stone, Kenneth Saries, Theodore Schmidt, Elizabeth Crowell, Pierius Hibma, Fred Saries, Gerald Fitzgibbon, James Schmeller, Harlow Schuhring, Richard Kropf, Eliza Beth Wald, Phyllis Neeson, Sam Krosmansky, Louise Coxon, Harry Schmidman, Allen Ostreider, Ruth McCarty.

In the biology department there are the following exhibitors: Frances Smith, Mary Pidcoe, Carleton Stephens, Theodore Wiedenbeck, Arthur Stephens, Potter Brayton, Sarah Stebbins, Helen McMurry, Edwin Hotchkiss, Henry Stevens, Stewart Schmeller, Eugene Hotchkiss, Dorothy Potter, Dorothy Walker, Rosetta Tiedeman, Richard Bubolz, Florence Thorpe, Arlene Weidenkopf, Virginia Hibbard, Grace Burke, Marguerite Wojta, Madeline Steil.

Seasonable Beauty Aid

We find you can bring out the beauty of your hair to its very best advantage by washing it with canthox. It makes a very simple, in the hair and scalp thoroughly of all expensive shampoo, which cleanses the dandruff, dirt and excess oil, leaving a wonderfully clean, whole-some feeling. After its use you will find that the hair dries quickly and evenly, is never streaked in appearance and is always bright, soft and fluffy, so fluffy, in fact, that it looks more abundant than it is, and so soft that arranging it becomes a pleasure. Just use a teaspoonful of canthox, which you can get from any good druggist, dissolve it in a cup of hot water; this makes a full cup of shampoo; liquid, enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. —Adv.

Norman Weiskirch, Geraldine Wright, Myrtle Clapp, Ruth Corp, Lucile Creed, John Dopp, Eloise Drake, Jean Graves, Eugene Herrling, Adamson Hoesel, Beth Humphrey, George Humphrey, John Carey, William Morgan, George Nelson, Cassels Noe, Grant Otis, Clyde Rengstorff, Randall Sears, Victor Seastone, Arthur Stehr, Bernice Winterbotham.

Exhibitors in general science No. 5: Harold Allen, Walter Ranson, Eudora Countryman, Frank Crown, Esther Dellinger, Lucille Dellinger, Evelyn Feldman, Lois Fish, Eleanor Gilbertson, Virginia Gordon, Mary Hoeber, Chard Lund, Reginald Jackson, Robert Kenney, Alice Kney, Ruth McCarty, Franklin Mead, Lloyd Miller, Selby Mills, Virginia Noe, Agnes Phillips, Helen Richardson, Eva Rogers, Ruth Romeis, Rodney Rosen, Harold Schmeller, Genevieve Scobie, Estelle Simaiko, Philip Stone, William Torkelson, Esther Wagner, Margaret Wells, Amelia Woldenberg.

General science No. 5 has the following exhibitors: Eleanor Hool, Louise Rood, Virginia Ellis, Helen Bardeen, Harry Selery, Charles Littleton, George Whitefield, Margaret Hodge, Luraz Price, Edwin Schwesinger, Harry Selery, Wilfred Haentzschel, Henry Bunting, Eric Lexochier, Randolph Rogers, Kenneth Sheffer, Edward Rice, Katherine Sheldon, Katherine Lamont, Virginia Bents.

The physics department exhibitors are: Oliver Alton, Ralph Arnold, William Bentien, Robert Brigg.

COULD HARDLY STAND AT TIMES

Hips, Back and Legs would Have That Tired Ache

Everett, Washington. — "For several years I have had trouble with the lowest part of my back and my hips and my legs would ache with that tired ache. I could hardly stand on my feet at times. I was always able to do my work although I did not feel good. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and having heard several praise it I decided to try it. I feel first-rate at the present time. It has done wonders for me and I keep it in the house right along. I always recommend it to others who are sick and ailing." — Mrs. J. M. Sussner, 4022 High St., Everett, Washington.

To do any kind of work, or to play for that matter, is next to impossible if you are suffering from some form of female trouble. It may cause your back or your legs to ache, it may make you nervous and irritable. You may be able to keep up and around, but you do not feel good.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women. It is especially adapted to relieve the cause of the trouble and then these annoying pains, aches and "no good" feelings disappear.

ham, Edgar Gordon, George Heil, Archie Henry, Edwin Hotchkiss, Eugene Hotchkiss, Roy Kenison, Iris Moncar-Sellen, Louis Petroff, William Saries, John Seastone, Tempey Stenerson, Norma Weiskirch, Lester Brickman.

Good Clothing is made up of three things—Good Fabrics, Good Design and Good Tailoring. Skimping any one of them will cheapen clothing in price, but it will cheapen it far more in Quality. You can buy cheap clothing which may look well when you first put it on, it may be made of good fabric, but the real test will come after you wear it—that's when Quality will begin to show up.

The difference between the cost of good clothing and cheap clothing is small. But the difference in value—in satisfaction to the wearer—is great.

Mrs. Edwards Will Address Woman Voters

National League Vice President Will Be Here Saturday

By CORNELIA WYNNE.
Mrs. Richard Edwards, first vice president of the National League of Woman Voters, will be the speaker and guest of honor at the annual luncheon of the Dane County League of Woman Voters, at 12:15 Saturday at the Woman's building. About 200 members will attend.

Mrs. Edwards, whose home is in Peru, Ind., is a charming woman, and an able and forceful speaker, and members of the Dane county league, who have already met her, are looking forward to an exceptionally brilliant talk.

Important matters will come up at this meeting, which will be the last one of the year. Officers for 1922-1923 will be elected, and there will be reports from delegates who attended the state convention held at Milwaukee in February, and the national convention held in Baltimore, Md., recently. Miss Bella Crowe, and Dr. Dorothy Mendenhall will report the national convention.

A change in the basis of membership will be the chief business discussed at this meeting. The action of the state league, taken at its recent annual meeting, in reducing from 50 cents to 25 cents the amount required to be paid in to the state treasury for each member of affiliated leagues, makes it possible for local leagues to readjust their dues on a new basis.

She's First Woman Indorsed For Senate By Major Party; Runs as 'Dem' in Minnesota

Mrs. Peter Olesen, indorsed by Democrats for senator from Minnesota.

CLOQUET, Minn.—Mrs. Peter Olesen, chosen by the Minnesota democrats as their candidate for the U. S. senate, and perhaps the first woman ever endorsed by a major political party for a seat in the upper house of congress, plans to start out in her flivver the day after the primary election to visit every city, town and village in the state.

"But it's not going to be a flivver of a campaign," she announces.

Mrs. Olesen will debate the record of Sen. Kellogg, whom she hopes to defeat in the coming campaign. If she wins his seat she expects to carry her husband along as a kind of ex-officio member.

Since 1909 her husband has been superintendent of schools at Cloquet. When summer vacation comes around both Mary, Mrs. Olesen's daughter, and Mrs. Olesen will aid in Mrs. Olesen's campaign.

The chief feature of the evening was a mock wedding with Miss Elsie Esser, the bride; Miss Esther Lyster, the groom; Miss Mary Kuth, the minister and Miss Gae Uney, the maid of honor. Miss Lydia Hovey played the wedding march. The decorations were in pink and green.

The guests were the Misses Ida Glasier, Pearl Gastrow, Julia Johnson, Delia Butler, Catherine Phelan, Rose Huxley, Eva Mapes, Olga Deery, Frieda Southoff Dorothy and Winifred Swenson, Jennie Friess, Bertha Rueth, Jessie and Olive Taylor, and Ingrid Jacobson and Mmes. Theta Delta Chi Picnic and Dance

Members of Theta Delta Chi will entertain Saturday evening with a picnic and dance. Cook, Chicago, and Mr. R. S. Mansfield, Oklauchee. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kessenick will act as chaperons.

This will not be Mrs. Olesen's first entry into public life. She was president of the 8th Minnesota congressional district Women's Federated Clubs and became delegate-at-large to the democratic national convention in 1920.

Although seeking one of the highest offices in the land, Mrs. Olesen is essentially a home woman.

"I do my own housework," she admits. "I think a woman can attend to her home duties and still participate in club activities or politics. She should however, measure the extent of her participation by the time it can legitimately claim from her household duties."

"My one desire in the campaign is to so conduct myself that no woman need be ashamed that I am of her sex, and if nothing else is accomplished, I want the campaign to be a political trail blazer for the women of Minnesota."

GIRLS! LEMONS WHITEN SKIN AND BLEACH FRECKLES

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note the beauty and whiteness of your skin. St. Raphael's Mother's Club

"Any child who has been instilled with a love of nature and growing things can't go wrong," said Frederick Cranfield, secretary of the Wisconsin State Horticultural society, speaking on "Home and School Garden Work," at the final meeting of the St. Raphael's Mother's club at Father Pettit's school Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Cranfield said that children are only bad because they haven't had a square deal and a fair chance. Garden work helps to give them this chance.

"Boys love a garden because it is something which is their very own. There is a fascination in growing things that appeals to children and the companionship which they receive in group gardens is good for them."

"Let your boy garden for gardening's sake and not for a dollar or two which you may offer him," he urged.

The eighth grade presented a program.

Preschool day which constitutes the weighing, measuring and examining of children from 1 to 6 years of age was held Thursday afternoon from 2 to 4 at Father Pettit's school.

Cap Night Set For Saturday; Name Officers

Police Commission Appointed to Prevent Trouble on Campus

Cap night will be held on the lower campus, May 20, beginning at 5 o'clock, following out the decision made by the Student Senate some time ago. The conflict with the Military review has been remedied by setting the time late in the afternoon.

The Athletic board decided last night that it would have nothing to do with cap night, and that as it was a freshman event the Senate alone could fix the date.

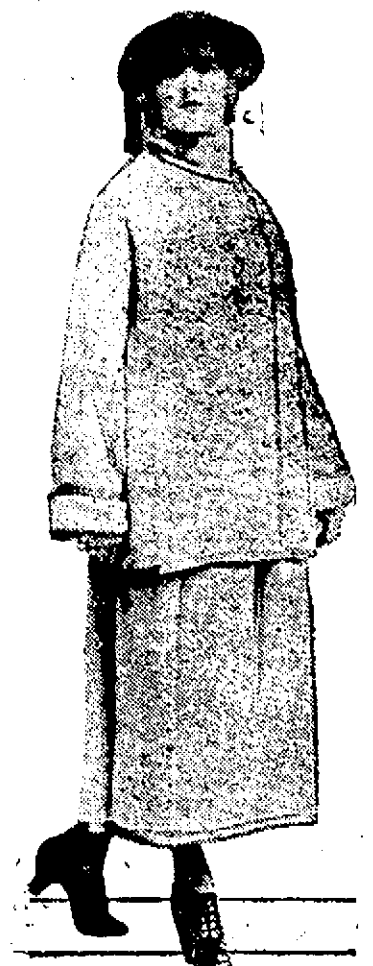

Tebell Heads Police
A police commission has been appointed by the law enforcement committee to see that there are no outbreaks such as occurred last year. Gus Tebell '23 has been put in charge of the commission which consists of James Brader '20, E. H. Gibson '23, Charles Puestow '23, and Rollin Eke '22.

Jack Lersch, president of the freshman class, has appointed the cap night committee which will proceed at once to work out plans for the event.

Members of the committee are: Kenneth Ruggles, chairman; Albert Deacon, assistant chairman; Weldson O'Brien; Herbert Optiz; Arthur Timmie; Warrington Lyons; Lawson Adams; and Dave Wheeler.

A committee of three was also appointed by the Student Senate at its meeting last night to select a suitable green cap to be worn by the freshmen next fall. The cap will probably be of the sailor "bob" type. The committee will also consider the feasibility of selecting a green to be worn during the winter months. Members of the committee are Robert Aspinwald '22, chairman, Cyril Erickson '22, and Maynard Brown '23.

SCRAPED WOOL IS NEW FABRIC FOR FALL GARMENTS

Paris is giving out hints of what will be worn next fall. A scraped wool fabric which has the appearance of angora is to be used for coats and suits. This model, pictured is a Paris idea of a walking suit. It is blue edged in gold braid.

AT THE MAJESTIC.
When Will Rogers was cast for the part of Ezra Botts, professor, in the new Paramount five-reel comedy, "One Glorious Day," they told him he would have to smoke. "But smoking makes me sick," he objected.

"Well," returned James Cruze, the director, "you're supposed to get sick."

"Can't I chew gum?"

"Who ever heard of a professor chewing gum?"

"Gosh!" observed the actor, "I'm going to have a tough time. If I smoke I get sick, but I've got to smoke because they want me to get sick. And I can't chew gum—it's a hard life."

"One Glorious Day" comes to the Majestic theater today for three days. Lila Lee is leading woman and heads a capable supporting cast.

A two act Christy Comedy and Latest News Weekly are also showing.

While there he becomes acquainted with two crooks. When freed the youth determines to go back to his home and arrives to find his aged mother and little sister in direst poverty and about to have the mortgage foreclosed by the village skinflint. Through the aid of his two crook friends a way is found to beat out the grasping miser while the influence of the trusting mother turns the two crooks to the right road and opens up for them a new life of love and happiness.

U.S. Inspection To Open Today At University

Review of R. O. T. C. Cadets to be Held Friday on Campus

The annual government inspection of the cadet corps will take place today, Friday, and Saturday. The review of the entire cadet corps will be held tomorrow on the lower campus.

Officers working under the direction of the general staff of the United States army are to determine whether Wisconsin will be rated an honor school for the next year.

General George Bell, Jr., will be in Madison on May 30 to review the work of the military department. The cadets will take part in the Memorial day exercises and parades at that time. Major John S. Wood, yesterday said, "It has not yet been determined just what the corps will do on May 30. The definite plans will be made later."

During its regular drill hour, each company will be set to work at a drill which it has been perfecting.

The other colleges and universities with military departments in the Sixth corps area are also inspected at this time of the year. Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin comprise the Sixth corps area.

The radio controlled carriage, which was built by two signal corps men a few months ago, was being overhauled yesterday for the review. The carriage will be driven around on the army floor.

Charles E. Whelan, former mayor of Madison, will speak at the Memorial day exercises at Camp Randall in which the cadets will take part. All patriotic societies in the city, boy scouts, girls reserves, and the Young People's branch of the W. C. T. U. are to participate in the parade.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS will take place at the meeting of the Saddle and Siroin club this evening at 7:30 o'clock in Agricultural hall.

Fast Milwaukee Semi-Pro Team Meets Madison Ball Aggregation Here Sunday

Kilonis-Greek Go Looks Like Title Caliber

Meyers To Watch Men At Work; Kilonis Leaves East

John Kilonis-Jimmy Demetral has every ear-mark of a formal championship battler. When the two men meet here Tuesday night in Turner hall, Madison Johnny Meyers expects to see at the ringside to watch the fight with considerable interest, much as he may be forced to watch one of them in the near future.

There is a gentleman's agreement between Meyers and the two grapplers that the winner will be given a rematch at the Madison gymnasium. Kilonis hopes to pin the invader in a successful struggle, so that he may carry out his plan to meet him at Monona park either during the thirty-second division round or on Labor day.

Meyers has promised to meet the Greek here Labor day, if the latter comes from Kilonis. Kilonis finished his training at George Rothner's gymnasium in New York and left last night for Chicago to put the finishing touches on his work for the match. He will arrive in Madison some time on Monday and will undoubtedly appear in a public exhibition in the Madison gym Monday night. Demetral probably will be excluded from the room during his performance.

BADGERS TRAIN HARD FOR IOWA GAME SATURDAY

Hawkeyes' Many Losses Weaken Chances For Favor

Coach Lowman is sending his squad through a series of hard games this week in order to prepare them for Saturday's game with Iowa. The Badgers are not considered exceptionally strong this year, due to the fact that they have lost four out of the five games they have played. Illinois, one of the strongest teams in the conference, was able to beat them in the final inning by a one run margin, however, and this, combined with the fact that they were defeated by Wisconsin, indicates that they are a team of possibilities. The Iowans, furthermore, have a habit of losing out in the races for the pennant and are considered the chances for other teams for the championship. This has been true this year in both football and basketball.

High Schools To Send Big Delegations

Interscholastic Track Meet Entries May Set Record

With two more high schools entered than have ever before competed in a state meet, and with many entries outstanding, the Twenty-eighth Annual Interscholastic Track meet will surpass any previous competition in magnitude. The meet will be held May 2 and 27 in connection with the water carnival and Venetian Night ceremonies.

Although entry blanks had been received from 42 high schools last night, officials expect that this number will be swelled by late entries. Yesterday was the last day for mailing entries, so the outstanding blanks are expected to raise the number of competing schools to nearly 50.

The number of high school athletes who will compete will probably reach 500, which will exceed last year's number by more than 100.

Milwaukee, with teams from North, South, East, and West divisions and Bay View high schools entered, is sending more men to the meet than any other city. Graf, South division high school, is looking up as the most likely of the Cream City men. His record in previous meets, this spring makes him a serious contender for high point man.

High schools from all parts of the state are entering the meet, and practically every school of importance in the southern half is sending a squad. Superior, Spooner, and Rice Lake are among the schools sending teams from the northern part of the state.

Now Jimmy comes out of his solitude long enough to announce that Luis Firpi, South American heavyweight, looks up as one of the best heavies in the game and a possible challenger of Jack Dempsey within a year or two.

College Mound Man Wins For Yankees, 6-4

Murray Relieves Shawkey And Holds Indians Scoreless

NEW YORK—Sensational pitching and hitting by George Murray, North Carolina collegian, enabled the Yankees to defeat Cleveland on Wednesday, 6 to 4. Murray held the Indians scoreless after relieving Shawkey and put New York in the game with a home run in the second with Pipp and Scott on base.

BLANK DODGERS. ST. LOUIS—The locals ran up nine hits for seven runs off Grimes during his four innings on the mound, and pounded Gordiner for five more hits, defeating Brooklyn on Wednesday, 11 to 0. It was Sherdel's sixth consecutive victory. A circuit drive was made by Torporce, with Smith on base, and one was knocked by Smith with Sherdel on. Hornsby also pounded out a four baser, being his sixth this season.

BEAT PHILS. CINCINNATI—Donohue pitched air tight ball and was given excellent support in the field, enabling Cincinnati to win Wednesday's game from Philadelphia by a score of 1 to 0.

TAME BRAVES. CHICAGO—Chicago bunched hits behind bases on balls and easily defeated Boston by 6 to 3 in the first game of the series.

RED SOX COP. BOSTON—Two errors by McManus on grounders, by Leibold and Merosky, a pass to Pratt which filled the bases, Smith's single to left which scored two runs, a perfect bunt by Dugan which filled the bases again, and sacrifice fly to left by Burns and Foster gave Boston four runs in the ninth inning on Wednesday, 7 to 3, defeating St. Louis, 4 to 3. Until the ninth Van Gilder held Boston to four hits, and received sensational support.

HOMER WINS. PHILADELPHIA—Tillie Walker's home run drive scoring Johnston ahead of him broke up the pitching duel on Wednesday between Faber and Heimach in the thirteenth inning, and gave Philadelphia its fourth straight victory, 3 to 1. Heimach, a recruit from the Marine club of the Three Eye League, held the White Sox to eight scattered hits.

Madison High Track Team Is Ready For Dual Meet

Sitting, left to right—H. McFadden, capt.; W. Olson, H. Zilius, R. Pahlmeyer, G. Eisele, J. Schlecta, R. Ragatz, Bud Walsh, E. Flynn, E. Eisele, W. Cleveland, G. Olwell, H. Armstrong.

Madison high school's track team will journey to Stevens Point on Friday night for a dual meet with the high school in that city. The above picture was snapped at Camp Randall just after the team had finished tapering off in the various events.

Among the men who will probably go to the meet are: Bert Johnson, D. Woodford, R. Rhoads, J. Maxwell, H. McFadden, W. Olson, H. Zilius, R. Pahlmeyer, G. Eisele, J. Schlecta, R. Ragatz, Bud Walsh, E. Eisele, W. Cleveland, G. Olwell and H. Armstrong.

The Madison track team cleaned up at the Whitewater meet and it is expected that they will carry off honors at the Stevens Point meet if there are no Milwaukee schools entered.

The team received 7 gold medals, 3 silver and 4 bronze medals from the Whitewater normal today for their success at the Whitewater meet. A loving cup was also awarded the school for winning first place in the meet.

Red Melzer, the lanky star of the News mound staff, will do the pitching with his partner, Red Anvelink, on the receiving end.

Although a club of youngsters with plenty of snap, the News club is a smooth working and well oiled machine. The work of Wilbur Braby, one of the few veterans, as field leader of the club has resulted in the development of a smooth running infield.

The inner works will show Golvin at first base, Borgerino, the smoothest fielding article shown in Wisconsin in years, at second McCarty, the kid with the shot gun arm, at short, and Manager Braby at third.

Alpha Gamma Rho Defeat Pi Kappa

The 14 to 1 Alpha Gamma Rho victory over the Pi Kappa Alphas featured the interfraternity baseball games that were played yesterday. The Deltas, Phi Deltas, and Delta Sigma Phis also won their games.

Holmes pitched a good game for the Alpha Gamma Rho nine, but his mates left Mercer's offerings to every corner of the field for their 14 runs. Batteries: Alpha Gamma Rho—Holmes and Scherneck. Pi Kappa Alpha—Mercer and Fellows.

The Phi Deltas and Sigma Phis were tied until the last inning when the former aggregation slipped across the winning run. The final score was 3 to 2. Batteries: McIntosh and Biehoff. Sigma Phi—Porter and Kissel.

The Deltas won from the Delta Chis by a score of 7 to 6. The game was close and was featured by good pitching. Batteries—D. K. E. Johnson and Morris. Delta Chi, Dellow and Christianson.

Kappa Sigma lost to Delta Sigma, 7 to 4. Batteries—Delta Sigma, A. Christianson and Harriet. Kappa Sigma, Foser and Perry.

Big Ten Mentor Meet

Coach Thomas E. Jones left yesterday for Rockford, Ill., where he conferred with other Big Ten mentors on the possibility of holding a Mid-west regatta on the Rock river next year.

Rockford devotees of water racing attempted to hold a series of crew races this year, but were unsuccessful. It is doubtful if the river is wide and deep enough to permit a big enough event to be held.

Frosh Defeat Sophs In 11-1 Ball Game

Far outclassing their opponents the freshmen piled up an 11 to 1 count against the sophomores in baseball yesterday afternoon.

Gleason, playing third base for the winners, showed up well as did Ambler, who pitched for the yearlings. Montgomery, behind the bat, held up the latter in admirable fashion.

Joie Ray Accepts Stagg's Race Invite

CHICAGO—Joie Ray, distance runner of the Illinois Athletic club, accepted the invitation of Coach Stagg of the University of Chicago to meet Ray Watson of Kansas City in a special mile race, in connection with the interscholastic track meet May 27.

Bill Brennan jumps into the ring, weighing 196 lbs., and knocks out Tracy the Australian champion in eight rounds. Brennan jumped through the ropes and looked like a butcher boy, and Tracy nearly knocked all the air out of the room with wild swings and furnished lots of comedy with his tactics.

Brennan had a date and swung on Tracy's jaw so he could get away on time. The big man from over there thought that everybody in Australia hit him on the jaw at one time when he came to. The first thing he said was, When does the next boat go home?

I received a letter from a fan yesterday saying, I see where the Madison team will play the Milwaukee Telegrams next Sunday, and then says I wish they would play all their games by telegram. He signed his name an old 300 hitter on the former "Madison Crescents."

I was glad Mrs. O'Brien for the letter you sent me saying you read my column every day, and asking me to explain why Dempsey did not visit Ireland. I will give my views tomorrow night.

Walter Hyland says that Leo Crowley will buy that new Rolls-Royce if he can find room in it to carry his two race horses around to the fair this fall. Both Hyland and Crowley ear a set of harness before breakfast each day. How these birds love to talk about the "nags."

Railroad Jack has left town for two weeks at last, giving the people a chance to use the sidewalks on Mifflin street.

Dempsey will land in America Saturday. He is bringing a couple of dogs back with him that he got for presents. While his next trip back will be to whip a couple of "hams" in Beckett and Wells, of England.

The Milwaukee Telegrams that play the Madison team here Sunday sure is a team worth seeing. They should play to a packed park. Last Sunday was a bad day for the local boys. They lost big money so all out this Sunday, and give them the support they are deserving.

Art "O'Hara" Reynolds of Winger Lake proved that the eye is quicker than the hand. An spread bread crumbs all over Winger the other night, then got up at daylight to catch the fish that swam up to grab the crumbs. Art made 76 gets and got one fish and that was a dead one. Anybody that has some old bread can give it to Art as he wants to try it again.

Why is Kilonis the great wrestler coming here to wrestle Demetral? The reason is that the Chicago gang is sore that Demetral is getting all the money in Milwaukee with the matches of late.

Demetral has been playing to packed houses in Milwaukee all winter and is a big favorite down there. And the Chicago bunch have been after him all winter for a match to get that money that Jim is getting away from them.

They have sent challenge after challenge, to him to the Milwaukee men that stage the matches but they have all been turned down. So the Chicago bunch have sent Kilonis here to throw this Madison Greek right out that Turner hall door and plant his body on top of the fire station.

Anybody that has some old bread can give it to Art as he wants to try it again.

Why is Kilonis the great wrestler coming here to wrestle Demetral? The reason is that the Chicago gang is sore that Demetral is getting all the money in Milwaukee with the matches of late.

Demetral has been playing to packed houses in Milwaukee all winter and is a big favorite down there. And the Chicago bunch have been after him all winter for a match to get that money that Jim is getting away from them.

They have sent challenge after challenge, to him to the Milwaukee men that stage the matches but they have all been turned down. So the Chicago bunch have sent Kilonis here to throw this Madison Greek right out that Turner hall door and plant his body on top of the fire station.

Bill Brennan jumps into the ring, weighing 196 lbs., and knocks out Tracy the Australian champion in eight rounds. Brennan jumped through the ropes and looked like a butcher boy, and Tracy nearly knocked all the air out of the room with wild swings and furnished lots of comedy with his tactics.

Brennan had a date and swung on Tracy's jaw so he could get away on time. The big man from over there thought that everybody in Australia hit him on the jaw at one time when he came to. The first thing he said was, When does the next boat go home?

I received a letter from a fan yesterday saying, I see where the Madison team will play the Milwaukee Telegrams next Sunday, and then says I wish they would play all their games by telegram. He signed his name an old 300 hitter on the former "Madison Crescents."

I was glad Mrs. O'Brien for the letter you sent me saying you read my column every day, and asking me to explain why Dempsey did not visit Ireland. I will give my views tomorrow night.

Walter Hyland says that Leo Crowley will buy that new Rolls-Royce if he can find room in it to carry his two race horses around to the fair this fall. Both Hyland and Crowley ear a set of harness before breakfast each day. How these birds love to talk about the "nags."

Railroad Jack has left town for two weeks at last, giving the people a chance to use the sidewalks on Mifflin street.

Dempsey will land in America Saturday. He is bringing a couple of dogs back with him that he got for presents. While his next trip back will be to whip a couple of "hams" in Beckett and Wells, of England.

The Milwaukee Telegrams that play the Madison team here Sunday sure is a team worth seeing. They should play to a packed park. Last Sunday was a bad day for the local boys. They lost big money so all out this Sunday, and give them the support they are deserving.

Art "O'Hara" Reynolds of Winger Lake proved that the eye is quicker than the hand. An spread bread crumbs all over Winger the other night, then got up at daylight to catch the fish that swam up to grab the crumbs. Art made 76 gets and got one fish and that was a dead one. Anybody that has some old bread can give it to Art as he wants to try it again.</

Nelson Outlines Norway Fight For Independence

McFARLAND, Wis.—"It is proper and wholesome for any nation to annually celebrate significant historical events," declared Robert N. Nelson, Madison attorney, speaking here Wednesday night at the Norwegian Independence day celebration. He referred to the formation of the national law-making body in Norway, the Storting, on May 17, 1814. That event, he pointed out, marked the beginning of Norwegian independence, corresponding with our Fourth of July. In part he said:

"Such events arouse patriotism, love of country and tends to interest people in the history, literature and political achievements of the country in question. Surely Norway and its people may well be proud of the patriotism of its people and of its record and achievement so far as history, literature, art, industrial and economical developments are concerned."

"That we, here in this land of ours, of Norwegian parentage, show due respect and recognition to Norway and its people on this, its national holiday, is absolutely right. Any difference of opinion on this proposition is due to misapprehension on only. The Christian training, the respect for government, law and order, habits of thrift, industry and frugality, love of home, respect for parents and kindred, are all essential attributes to a desirable member of a community, and hence are all essential to good citizenship. That but with very few exceptions the emigrants from Norway from the very beginning possessed the above essentials as an inheritance from their mother country and have put them into practice here to their and their adopted country's mutual advantage. Norway may well be proud of the record that her emigrants have made in this country. To their credit largely can it be said that the forests have had to give way to fertile farms and the wild prairies to fields of golden grain."

The Story of An Unloved Wife

As Told to Grace Phelps

JOHN WRESTLES WITH RE- Grets

It was Billy who came to my door.

"Miss Nelson has not been paid," he said. "Suppose you let me advance her room rent until the end of the week?"

Mrs. Brown shook her head.

"My dear child," she said, "how very stupid of me! You look so very prosperous that I had forgotten you were a beginner. How very brave of you to set out, determined to make your own way from the very start! Most girls take over the first year by money from home. It is so much more independent to do as you are doing. You must not think of paying me advance and if you like, you need not pay me until you get your second week's pay."

Again I was ashamed of myself. The face of the high motives she attributed to me, but the financial difficulty was over for the time being and I went out into the March day feeling so warm inside me that the bitter wind did not affect me at all.

After we had breakfasted, I had time to wonder what Alec had thought when he found I had not returned to the hotel the night before. I suppose it was my unconscious desire to hurt him but I must confess it never occurred to me that I had been cruel. I did not send word to him that I could have let him know I was happy and comfortable without telling him where I was. Even a postal card would have been enough to save him from the anxiety I know now that he must have felt even if he did not love me.

The second day passed more easily than the first. I waited on my customers quickly though I had not yet acquired Billy's easy manner of conversing with them. When the day's rush was over and I had time to think again, I found that I was not so very happy, after all. Billy had an engagement and she had left me in bed, tired but not so tired as I had been the previous night. Before I went to sleep I had plenty of time to think over what I had done and, I must confess it, to feel half sorry I had run away.

Alec did not care for me, that was certain. The difference between the intimate manner in which he treated Mrs. Underwood and the distant, patronizing attitude he maintained toward me was proof enough, if I needed any proof. I pulled myself up short at this, as I have done many times since. I had no right to demand that his manner should be anything else. He had married me to give me the protection of his name. That was all. He had not bargained to behave like a lover. I had no right to expect that he should.

None the less it was very hard for me even to realize that I was being unjust to him. Although I still had only the faintest suspicion that I loved him, the fact that we were married made me feel somehow, that Alec's duty was to love me, whether I loved him or not!

Of course it was illogical. It was over more illogical when I began to feel resentful that Alec was making no effort to find me. If he had really tried, if he had really wanted to find me, it would not have been difficult.

My resentment, however, changed into alarm the next morning.

Heart and Home Problems

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 15 years old and have been keeping company with a young man for two years. He is very kind-hearted and always treated me like a girl should be treated. A few weeks ago we started to have frequent quarrels. I don't yet understand why he got angry at me the last time. He thought it was because I went out with three other couples one night. My mother does not care if I go with boys, but she does not like it when I go with one only. She says I am too young to love. I love this boy and would like to know how I can gain his affection. JUST ALONE.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of twenty-two years. I have been going with a young man for nearly three years. I think the world of him although he does not show his love. I heard he said he loved me very much and he said he was going to marry me.

I am a girl that likes a caress once in a while. When I ask him for a good-night kiss he tells me to get over that stuff because only kids do that. He says there is a lot of time when we are married.

He is a man of twenty-seven years. He said he would have to wait nine years before he could marry because he didn't have enough money. Would you advise me to get married without money if he should ask me? He had enough money to buy a sedan automobile.

I haven't seen him for a month. I went to another town to work two weeks. When I called him up he said the more I called him up and wrote to him, the longer he would stay away.

I don't understand him. Please advise me what to do.

MELTON CHOLY.

You have been running after the young man and have lost your chance of making him love you by taking the initiative. It was not correct for you to ask him to kiss you good-night or to telephone him and write when he did not request you to do so. Do not try to see him again. If he asks to see you it is different and it would be all right to let him come.

There is a great chance that the friend who told you that he loved you and wanted to marry you misrepresented. Do not believe everything you hear.

In regard to marrying him, if he should ask you, it would probably mean he felt sufficiently able to support you. Judge for yourself whether you could live on his income.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Do you think it advisable for a man past thirty who has nothing in store for the future or a foundation on which to start, to try to win a girl unless he could go in the best of style? There are rivals giving her a good time in different ways, spending a lot of time from business duties, etc. Would it be advisable for me to try to compete with them?

Is it proper to try to make a date with a girl a man has seen a few times, but has never been made acquainted with her? Or to try to go with a girl he has just met one time?

I am energetic and capable of two or three kinds of business and am intelligent. Would it be better to wait until conditions become normal again or to grasp present opportunities?

I have always been domestic, not a runaway, have never been a ladies' man, am fairly good-looking and have a good character and

Features For The Children

Billy Whiskers

By Frances Montgomery

How Ned raced home to tell his mother to have a generous lunch packed ready for him when the shrill whistle blew that afternoon summoning the fortunate fourteen to the lake shore! And how breathlessly he recounted to his father the scene of rejoicing among the "fellows," as he called the club boys, when he asked the camp master if he might take his Billy along. He confessed he expected a decided no for an answer, but the boys had made him promise that whenever he was chosen he would ask to have his goat over for the night. Every cap called high in the air as they heard the master say: "A goat in camp? Rather unusual, but if you'll promise to hold him tight so he won't capsize the boat, he can come."

You may be sure there were no laggards in that camping squad. The whistle had not ceased to send back its echo before boys in blue sweaters with C B O across the chest had begun to gather about the boat. Each came with a blanket and a contribution to the general food supply. Bundles were tossed in, and each of the group stood about awaiting orders from the camp master. His word was law, and though every heart beat high with the hope of being appointed a helper to Ned Dodge to manage the goat, not a word of discussion was heard.

"Jack, Jerry and Fred will occupy the middle of the boat with Ned today. They are the oldest and strongest and can hold Billy down," came the order, and before many more minutes the boat was being rapidly towed across the lake by a gasoline launch, often thus pressed into duty. On going over to and returning from camp three strict rules had to be obeyed. First, no tipping or rocking of the boat; second, no leaning over the side to dabble in the water; and third, no changing of seats. This afternoon all the passengers were too much interested in Billy to be tempted

A Trick A Night

"ONE TRICK A NIGHT"

The Magnetized Ring

Suspend a large gold ring from your right forefinger, by a silk thread about 12 inches long, so that by resting your elbow on the table, it will hang about half an inch above the surface.

The ring will soon become stationary provided that there is nothing you place immediately below it. Several coins such as quarters or dimes, it will commence to swing backwards and forwards, or to and from you.

Now if a lady takes hold of your free hand the ring will change its course and will oscillate, perpendicularly to its former motion. It can then be changed back to its original course by having a gentleman take hold of the lady's disengaged hand.

This is caused by magnetic currents present in the body, and is one of the most mystifying little tricks known to science.

Marching With The Legion

Silver Statuette of Archangel Michael

Among the signal features of the trophy room in the new national headquarters of the American Legion in Indianapolis, Ind., is a silver statuette of the Archangel Michael, presented to Commander Hanford MacNider by General Armando Diaz, Italy's hero in the world war. In moving into the new headquarters the statuette was not entrusted to any moving van, but was carried along the street under the good right arm of the national adjutant, Lemuel Bolles. The silver figure and pedestal weigh about 40 pounds.

The symbol of St. Michael was chosen by the King of Italy as an emblem of the end of war. It shows the warrior angel in the act of sheathing his sword. According to ancient Italian tradition this act foreshadows a lasting peace.

The original of the statuette, a bronze figure cast in bronze, surmounts the Castle San Angelo in Rome. San Angelo was built in the second century A. D. as the tomb of the Roman emperor Hadrian. Built in the Roman style with walls of hewn stone 30 feet in thickness, it was later converted into a medieval fortress. In 1700 years the castle was never captured but once. The original statue of St. Michael was cast for its roof over a thousand years ago.

The American army at Washington during the war is being rapidly annihilated. The latest order sends 198 officers from the capital to duties elsewhere.

The Legion is endeavoring to broadcast the information to service men that they can still carry government war-risk insurance. Policies may be reinstated at any time up to March 3, 1926, no matter when they were dropped.

The Legion in Milwaukee, Wis., has supplied more than 11,000 ex-soldiers with food and clothing in the past year. Service men and their kin were loaned more than $3,000, legal aid was tendered gratis to 150 and medical and dental service was granted to 450.

Every ward in the Oteen, N. C., hospital for world war men has been adopted by an American Legion Auxiliary unit. The women of Sitka, Alaska, adopted the last "motherless" ward.

Sick and wounded veterans at University hospital, Oklahoma City, Okla., are being admitted free to all Western League baseball games on tickets issued by the Legion.

"Doctors say I have 35 years to live, but I believe I will have 40 years longer, and half of that time will be devoted to the interest of you men," former Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis told disabled ex-soldiers in an Asheville, N. C., hospital which he visited as guest of the Legion.

An Experiment In Burglary

By H. HOBART NICHOLS

By H. HOBART NICHOLS
(The beginning)

I put aside my morning paper as the postmaster bell rang.

"Well, dear, what is the news," inquired my wife when we were seated at the table.

"Nothing very startling," I replied, "except that the burglars were at it again last night; the police think they are an organized gang, and not local thieves."

Washington had been the scene, for a fortnight past, of a scene of daring robberies. The police were mystified and seemed to be unable to get the slightest clue to their movements.

"I think, my dear," I continued, "that we had better put our silver in a safe deposit until these fellows let up, for it seems they are too much for the authorities; I should not like to lose it, and the fact that we have quite a tempting lot was well advertised in the society columns at the time of our marriage."

"Nonsense, George," replied my wife, who is not easily alarmed. "Do you suppose these men ever read what is going on in society? At any rate, no one could enter this house in the night without arousing me; and, if they did, they would never find the silver in that clever little device of yours—how could they?"

"My dear, you don't seem to understand how clever these professional burglars are; and as for you

Twice enough to try to make a call or not? A READER.

It is a very sad thing when a man lacks respect for himself. You place money and material show ahead of your own divine person-ality. A person who is interesting and has charm is just as welcome to a girl of genuine worth as a man with a lot of money. At least I would advise you to try your luck. It is all right to go with a girl you have met only one time, but it would not be correct to try to go with a girl to whom you have not been introduced.

There is no reason why you should not have young lady friends even if conditions are bad. I would not advise you to think of marriage until you have sufficient money to support a wife.

If a girl refuses to let you call twice, you may count upon it that she is not interested in you.

STRAWS WHICH SHOW WHICH WAY FASHION WIND BLOWS

The chin chin shape trimmed with beads, embroidery or straw ornaments is usual this year for suit hats. Flower trimming on large hats is going to be the accepted thing for dress wear. Here are four new hat models from exclusive millinery displays. A split hat is shown at the upper right.

Wheat Drops Due To Wet Report of Rain

(By the Associated Press)
CHICAGO—With cold and wet weather prevailing, regarded as likely to improve the condition of the winter and spring crops, the wheat market averaged a little lower during the early trading. Declines, however, were checked by the fact that Liverpool quotations showed firmness as compared with setbacks there yesterday. Chicago receipts today were 170 cars.

Deliveries on May contracts amounted to 161,000 bushels. The opening which varied from 1/4 cents lower to 1/2 cent advance May 1.45 1/2 and July 1.27 1/2, was followed by a slight upturn and then by a moderate general decline.

Toward the end of the session, pit speculators became aggressive in selling. Increased weakness of May affected the new crop deliveries. The close was unsettled 1/4 to 1/2 cents net lower, May 1.41 1/2 to 1.42 and July 1.26 1/2 to 1.27.

CORN—Rains causing delay to planting tended to steady the corn market. After opening unchanged at 1/2 cent higher, July 64 1/2 the market hardened a little and then underwent a slight sag.

OATS—Oats started 1/2 cent off to a like advance July 40 1/2, and then kept close to the initial range.

PROVISIONS—Provisions were neglected.

"Norwegians Love Liberty And Democracy"—LaFollette

Senator, In May 17th Celebration at Chicago, Shows How Norwegians Have Always Stood on The Side of Progress; Sketches Contribution Made By Scandinavians To Overthrow Autocracy In The United States; Shows How Powers of Wealth Are Encroaching In The U. S.

THE FOLLOWING is the speech delivered by Sen. La Follette at the Norwegian Independence Day celebration in Chicago last night. The speech follows in full:

ON May 17, 1814, just one hundred and eight years ago today at Eidsvold, near Christiania, a little group of determined Norwegians proclaimed a constitution for Norway. That constitution survives today through the vigilance, the courage, and the self-sacrifice of three generations of men and women who dedicated their lives to its defense.

Most of you trace your ancestry back to the heroic men and women who for more than a century have had a part in preserving that constitution and in maintaining the independence of Norway.

In these reactionary times it may be heartened to examine the circumstances which made the seventeenth day of May a landmark; to consider the cost to those who preserved the day and event for us; and, if we may apply the wisdom, the example, and the deep principles of that epoch-making event to the problems of today.

I am not here to preach the new doctrine of Americanism which is being proclaimed from every platform in the land from which the American descendants of foreign nationalities may be reached. I do not subscribe to the false doctrine of Americanism which would obliterate every racial difference, wipe out the language and the literature of other lands, crush all individuality of custom and thought, and substitute therefor such standards as might arbitrarily be prescribed by the proponents of this narrow creed.

I am not one of those who believe that the best Americans can be made of that element of our foreign-born population who can be taught to think and speak of their native lands in terms of indifference and contempt.

My conception of this country always has been, not a land at whose threshold the new-comer abandons all that distinguishes him from the men of other races, for a stereotyped, rigid standard which would result only in mediocrity,—my ideal for this country is a land to which the foreign-born citizens make their full contribution of all that is fine and worthy which they bring with them—a land where under democratic institutions they may enjoy the equal opportunities and privileges that life in the United States should afford, to which they are equally entitled because of their part in the making of America.

With this thought in mind, we may very appropriately ask what has been Norway's contribution to democracy?

It has been my good fortune throughout my life to be closely associated with Americans of Norwegian birth and descent. As a boy on the farm they were my closest neighbors and friends.

Honest, industrious, thrifty, keenly intelligent, free from prejudice, the early Norwegian settlers easily and quickly made the transition from the life of the old country to the new, seizing upon the advantages spread before them as American citizens without sacrificing any of their precious Scandinavian heritage.

The great majority of the Norwegian settlers who came to the United States were agricultural workers. They naturally chose the great Northwest for their homes.

Counting the Norwegian-born

Americans and their direct descendants, there are nearly as many persons of Norwegian blood in the states of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Dakota, and Illinois as there are in Norway itself, and next to Minnesota the state in which the largest number of Americans of Norwegian ancestry reside, is Wisconsin.

The Norwegian is not only naturally liberty loving, he is naturally politically minded,—actively interested and effective in public affairs. He is inherently forward-looking, keyed to action. He is progressive.

In the long conflict in Wisconsin for the overthrow of the political machine the Norwegian element was quick to respond in leadership and in following. No one who lived through that period will forget that struggle. Certain powerful corporations, especially the railroads with their political henchmen, were in control of the state. They refused to pay their just share of the taxes, denied the power of the state to guarantee a reasonable railroad rate, and fought desperately any changes in our nominating system which would give the citizen a better control of his representatives.

In 1896, in 1898, in 1900,—when the first progressive state administration in any state in the Union was elected to office,—down to the present day, the large element of our Norwegian population have worked untiringly and have stood steadfastly for a more progressive and more truly democratic government in Wisconsin.

And likewise in national affairs they are always to be found in the vanguard of the progressive movement. I trust it will seem fitting to you that I should say a word in appreciation of the late Senator Gronna. Asle J. Gronna represented all that was finest in the Norwegian character in public service. He never vacillated, never evaded, never retreated. Those who knew his influence knew that in the great issues pending and impending, he would ably and fearlessly support the cause of the plain people whom Abraham Lincoln loved.

In the field of national journalism moulding public opinion toward the highest American ideals your own John Anderson, and his associates did for the Norwegians who came here and for this country work akin to that done by Carl Schurz and his compatriots.

Another American of Norwegian origin who occupies a unique place in contemporary life is Andrew Furuseth, president of the great International Seamen's Union. A native of Norway, himself a sailor from early youth, this man refusing greater compensation than a seaman's wage, consecrated his life to the freeing of the American sailor from unjust conditions. When the Seamen's Act was signed in 1915, the first step was taken to write in to concrete form the vision which Furuseth had dreamed through two decades of adversity and sacrifice.

These, my friends, are types of the Norwegian character who have stood for freedom here in America.

From what environment have sprung the millions of men and women of Norwegian blood in this country who have stimulated and uplifted American standards in every community in which they have built their homes and worked their farms?

The answer is found in the history of the century following the day we now commemorate. In those years there came to full fruition the Norwegian love of democratic institutions.

In 1814, Norway had arrived at the crisis of her history. For 400 years she had been linked in union with Denmark, under conditions which were not satisfactory. On January 14, 1814, Frederick VI, the Danish King, with an arrogant disregard of Norwegian sentiment, not without its parallel in our own time, signed the Treaty of Kiel, ceding Norway to Sweden.

Norway, in 1814, thus faced the prospect of becoming a submerged nation, to be banded about from sovereignty to sovereignty, involved in every destructive war that swept Europe, while her peasants sank to the level of the poor in other countries. This little country had the alternative course of asserting her independence. The blood of Viking ancestors, who had explored the uncharted seas centuries before the southern races ventured from their shores, stirred in the Norse statesman of that day and Norway was saved to posterity by the proclaiming of the constitution of May 17.

On that day, delegates selected from every district of Norway convened at Eidsvold, and a constitution was solemnly ratified which up to this hour has remained the charter of Norwegian liberty.

It should be a matter of pride to every American citizen that the Constitution of the United States was the model for much that is found in the organic act of Norway. Norway proclaimed to the world that while Frederick VI might renounce his right to the crown of Norway, he could not dispose of an entire nation of free men without the consent of its people.

As had been anticipated, Sweden endeavored to enforce the Treaty of Kiel, and in the summer of 1814 Swedish troops invaded Norway. A meeting between representatives of the Norwegian and Swedish governments was arranged at Moss and it was proposed that Norway and Sweden should unite on the condition that the constitution of May 17 should remain in force.

On November 4, 1814, an extraordinary session of the Storting, the Norwegian parliament, was held at Christiania at which it was solemnly declared that Norway was "a free, independent, and indivisible kingdom, united with Sweden under one king." The following year an Act of Union was adopted, in which it was specifically stated that Norway had accepted the relationship "not by force of arms, but by free conviction," and Sweden, in turn, declared the Treaty of Kiel definitely abandoned.

From 1814 until the present century the history of Norway is the history of her struggle to preserve the constitution of the 17th of May. In gaining this end, she faced apparently insuperable obstacles. Much of the conflict between the crown and Norway centered about the Norwegian observance of May 17 as the national independence day. In April, 1828, the king summoned the Storting in extraordinary session for the purpose not only of preventing an observance of the national holiday, but also of amending the constitution and wresting from the Storting its position of dominance.

The legislature remained true to the interests of the people. It acceded in non-essentials to the demands of the crown. But upon principle it would not yield, and at the end of the session the forces of the king retired, leaving the Storting supreme and the constitution inviolate.

Early in the thirties the peasants of Norway began to assert the peculiar aptitude for self-government.

Under the leadership of Ole Uelund, and the peasants in 1835 elected 45 members to the Storting, nearly half of the total membership of that body, which went down in history as the "peasant Storting." The poet Hendrick Wergeland, dear to every reader of Norse literature, emerged at about this time as the leader of the "Young Norway" party and in the brief span of his life, only 37 years, from 1806 to 1845, not only won imperishable fame in the field of letters, but united the peasants and the workers in a political movement which made them a dominant factor in the government.

After 1836 the efforts to prevent celebration of the 17th of May and to alter the Norwegian constitution abated for a time in the face of the determined opposition of the people.

Under Oscar I and Carl XV, Norway made marked progress toward increased participation in the affairs of the world as an independent nation. She had already won in 1828 the right to fly her own flag from her merchant vessels.

But in 1871 there flamed up again an attempt to revise the constitution of 1814. The Norwegians again rallied to the defense of their liberties. As might be assumed from a knowledge of the history of any nation, it was not the well-born and the privileged classes who saved Norway. The public men who had been tried in the fire of conflict, joined hands in what was known as the "lawyers and peasants party" and repelled the most determined effort that had been made to destroy the constitution.

In 1897 the liberal party in Norway elected 79 liberals to 35 conservatives in the Storting. At once the movement in Norway for even a more complete measure of liberty and independence gained headway.

The occasion for the final severance of the bond between Norway and Sweden came on May 23, 1905, when the Storting passed a bill providing for a Norwegian consular establishment. The crown refused to sign the bill. The ministry thereupon resigned, and the Storting declared the union between Norway and Sweden dissolved. This declaration was submitted to a popular plebiscite on Aug. 13, 1905, and in an election which demonstrated the patriotism of the people, it was approved by a vote of 368,211 to 184. On Oct. 27, following, King Oscar proclaimed the relinquishing of the crown of Norway, and thus without a drop of bloodshed, Norway and Sweden entered upon their course as completely independent nations.

What is the lesson to be drawn from the history of Norway, by those who are facing the pressing problems of American life? If this were merely a chronicle of events, presenting no principle and charging us with no example, it would be unworthy of recall here today. We remember the generations of men and women who lived in this period because they preserved the constitution which was proclaimed 108 years ago and the great principles it embodied. They were fighting no sham battle. Doubtless the leaders in that movement were denounced as agitators and radicals. I have no doubt that if you look into the history of the time you will find that it was the masses of the people, the farmers, laborers, and small merchants and business men, together with scholars and publicists, who were most zealous in the defense of their country's liberties.

Just as the Norwegian patriots in 1814 turned to the constitution of the United States to find inspiration for the foundation of their state, we in America may well turn to the history of Norway's struggle during the past century for inspiration and guidance in our present situation.

Are we not, indeed, faced in this country today with precisely the same problem which the Norwegian people solved when they attained their political independence?

What was it that brought your fathers and grandfathers to this country to build their firesides around which many of you have grown to maturity? Those hardy immigrants saw in the United States unlimited economic opportunity, an equal chance with the rest of mankind regardless of birth or rank, and finally, a political environment under which the people might govern themselves and enjoy the blessings of free speech, free press, free assembly, and freedom of religion.

But a mighty power has been built up in this country within the past thirty or forty years, which is undermining the democracy which invited you, ancestors to American shores. Your children will not find the equality of opportunity which your fathers enjoyed. The existence of this power in American life is as real and as menacing as that which sought in Norway over a span of a century to destroy the constitution.

It is true that the issue was largely political in Norway and that here it is not only political but economic. But in each struggle it is the welfare of a nation which is at stake.

This occasion gains in significance as we recognize the great truth that the principle embodied in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of Norway are as vital to human liberty today as when proclaimed in 1776 and in 1814. Those principles are being abridged and undermined in these United States.

Who will deny that free speech and a free press have been abridged? Who will deny that equality of opportunity as conceived by Jefferson and maintained by Lincoln is being undermined?

Organized wealth, stronger than government itself, has acquired a monopoly control of the natural resources of our country—iron, coal, copper, oil and timber.

It controls credit, transportation, markets.

It arbitrarily fixes the prices of everything we buy, everything we sell.

It controls government and inevitably resorts to corruption. Do I need to cite the proof? Are you not all familiar with the Newberry case? When the majority of the United States Senate confirmed the election of Newberry in whose behalf, by his own confession, the sum of $185,000 was expended to gain his nomination, the door was opened to unlimited use of money to control elections.

Think what a seat in the Senate means. The heart of representative government lies in Congress. If it is corrupted, corruption enters at the life currents of government. You can have no honest representative government if seats in Congress can be bought and sold.

The people enacted through their representatives a system of direct primaries and by constitutional amendment provided for the direct election of U. S. Senators in order to protect themselves against corruption. Wealth has met this situation government to check the impudent misuse of its power. Since the enactment of these necessary laws, wealth has sought to thwart the will of the people by controlling elections by the corrupt use of money.

If money can be expended as in the Newberry case in behalf of a rich man, it may be expended hereafter in behalf of a poor man by great corporations whose greed prompts them to purchase seats in legislative chambers, but in any event its purpose will be corruption, and as surely as night follows the day corruption in elections will ripen into corruption in legislation and government.

I said in the Senate chamber and I say now that I believe it will be the verdict of the people, and through them I believe it will be the sober second judgment of the United States Senate that the Newberry case can never be settled until it is settled rightly by the retirement of the beneficiaries of this corrupt election.

On April 29th the Senate adopted a resolution directing the Committee on Public Lands to investigate the leasing of Naval Oil Reserves by the Secretary of the Interior to private interests.

For several years the fight to protect the Naval Oil Reserves against greedy exploiters has been waged. Suddenly, almost over night, it was discovered that the Secretary of the Navy had turned over the control of one enormous oil reserve located in the state of Wyoming, to the Secretary of the Interior, who in turn had leased it to a private syndicate known as the Mammoth Oil Company.

Three days ago a resolution was introduced by Senator McKellar of Tennessee, asking for an inquiry into the rising prices of oil at a time of immense oil production, when there is no visible reason why a gallon of gasoline should not go down in price instead of advancing.

I need not remind you, that the great issue involved in these concrete examples of exploitation is whether the Congress charged with solemn responsibility under the Constitution as trustees of the public domain, is to take the necessary steps to protect the people of this country from the extension of monopoly control over their natural resources.

The trail of corruption left by the oil monopoly in the pages of American history is not calculated to inspire the confidence of the people in any transaction to which the agents of that monopoly are parties.

Dominated by the Standard Oil Company, the oil monopoly has been the holiest, the most brazen, the most aggressive violator of the law with which any legislative body has ever had to contend. It has forced people all over this country out of business, crushed competition, and driven competitors in many instances to suicide.

The oil monopolists have, in a word, corrupted Government servants, ruthlessly seized and exploited the natural resources which Nature gave to man, and systematically robbed the people through extortionary prices. They could not have done this if they had not had servants on the floor of both branches of Congress and in the cabinets of every administration.

This monopoly reaches out and through its schemes tightens its grip upon the farmer, the business man, and upon every person who runs a gasoline engine, and every family that uses an automobile or an oil stove.

On Friday, the 12th of May, the Senate adopted a resolution calling on the Attorney General to forestall the threatened merger of seven more of the largest steel corporations which in defiance of law is on the verge of consummation.

This is the age of steel. Iron and steel today lie at the base of every human activity. Without steel our farms can not be cultivated, our railroads would cease to operate, our industries would be prostrated, and our very homes could not be built. The men who control this basic commodity control the nation.

A little more than 20 years ago they secured complete control of one-half the industry. They could control the other half of the industry only by agreements and understandings with the so-called independent companies. These agreements arrived at through the medium of the Gary dinners, worked well during the periods of prosperity, but they were inconvenient and, like all these gentlemen's agreements, were apt to be broken when in periods of depression there was a scramble for business. Today they are proposing to bring the other half of the industry under one consolidated control so that in future, instead of understandings to which there were a dozen or more parties, they will be able to make firm and binding agreements between the two great corporations which will dominate the industry.

Two great corporations will be able to sit down at a lunch table and without fear of detection fix the price of every pound of steel.

The Sherman Anti-Trust act provides a simple method of procedure in cases of this kind. The law does not merely empower the department of justice to institute proceedings, it specifically provides that it is the duty of the department to do so.

I cite you these concrete illustrations of the grip of the money power, the menace of monopoly at Washington.

When a government permits privileged wealth in combination to control production and prices to destroy free markets, it becomes the sponsor of industrial and economic slavery. It betrays the precious heritage of liberty and equality.

This undermining of the principles of our free institutions, has covered more than one generation of time. We are today feeling its inevitable effects in mounting living costs, bitter industrial conflict, widespread unemployment, profitless agriculture. With the denial of fundamental human rights, there is increasing arrogance and recklessness.

I believe we shall ultimately triumph over the forces of privileges which during the past five or six administrations have gained such control that they have destroyed equal opportunity, stifled free speech and a free press, and fastened the grip of monopoly upon the life of the people.

We have no reason to despair. This government belongs to the American people. They are essentially sound. They are intelligent. They want what is right. They can make government respond to their will.

You, my fellow citizens, have the ballot—men and women alike. And I place great value on the direct participation of women in the struggle for industrial and economic freedom.

In all my effort to advance the cause of democracy, my faith in the ballot has not failed. You have in your hands that instrument for the correcting of the conditions that confront you—the ballot.

If a cause is not strong enough to win by the ballot it cannot be maintained by the ballot. Reform of a government by force defeats democracy. Government by force is an autocracy. Through the ballot in the hands of an intelligent electorate, the will of the people can be made the law of the land.

That principle has been made the guide of my public life.

I hear it whispered on all sides today that the democratic principles of the American Constitution are out of fashion; that the Declaration of Independence proclaimed "glittering generalities" which were "self-evident lies" rather than eternal truths.

Confess, that I am an old-fashioned American. I venerate the memory of the founders of this Republic only by agreements and understandings with the so-called independent companies. These agreements arrived at through the medium of the Gary dinners, worked well during the periods of prosperity, but they were inconvenient and, like all these gentlemen's agreements, were apt to be broken when in periods of depression there was a scramble for business. Today they are proposing to bring the other half of the industry under one consolidated control so that in future, instead of understandings to which there were a dozen or more parties, they will be able to make firm and binding agreements between the two great corporations which will dominate the industry.

Voice of the People

[To the Editor]: About a month ago I received a bill from the Forest Hill Cemetery Commission. The charge was for improvements on my lot and to meet my share of the expenses of maintenance of the cemetery during the coming summer. I felt that the charge was unreasonable and unjust because I have visited the cemetery regularly during the summer months and have done quite a bit of work on my lot to give expression of my love for those who are buried there. In the past my lot has been conspicuous in contrast with the neglected lots in the cemetery. Neglected in so many cases because there was no one living who had loved those buried on these lots. I realized that with my disability or death, my lot in a few years would show the same condition of neglect as was the case with so many. Under the circumstances, the bill of the Commission looked like an attempt to take an unfair advantage of my love and reverence for my father and mother and my other loved ones buried on the lot.

When I talked with Mr. George Nelson, superintendent of the cemetery, I learned that my bill included my share of the general cost of improvements and maintenance of the cemetery and the cost of reclaiming and resodding the graves in the section in which my lot is located. I also learned that the Cemetery Commission has made plans so that ultimately every lot in the cemetery will be under perpetual care and we may enter the realm of death with a consoling assurance that there will be at least one spot on the earth where the fact that we have lived will be commemorated forever with nature's loveliest products—the grass and the flowers, the shrubs and the trees.

Our final resting place and the graves of our loved ones will be cared for and kept more beautiful than the Taj Mahal. I paid my bill of $6.00 gladly and I am planning to deposit a fund with the Commission for the perpetual care of my lot so that it will not be necessary that the Commission sell the unused portion to secure such a fund.

I wish to express my appreciation of the work of the Commission and its sympathetic foresight in my behalf. The cemetery was never more beautiful. The evidences of neglect are being removed and the grounds are now and are being made more and more so the expression of our highest love—a love which is absolutely pure. For there can be no return or reward from those for whom we thus express our love.—An Old Resident.

The more or less distinguished governor of Wisconsin is going about the street with noise and trumpet proclaiming that a sum of $235,050 he does not add any cents—has been collected, "already paid in" by the corrupt forces of evil and so on, to defeat the will of the people and elect the man named by the convention called by the Committee of 44. He also claims that he knows who paid in the money and all about it and some day he is going to tell the names of the contributors right out in meeting.

That is cheap clap trap. It would be taken for what it is worth in anyone else—pure bunk. But the governor of the state is making this statement and his position dignifies it with exaggerated importance. He has machinery of law at his hand and access to all sorts of writs and procedures to give the statement he makes that publicity which will carry weight, i. e., name the names on the list.

It's up to the governor to fish or cut bait. Make good the assertion and get out of the field of glittering generalities.—Janesville Gazette.

Norway's Anniversary

(From Superior Telegram)

May seventeenth has sometimes been called Norway's Fourth of July. On that date in the momentous year of 1814 her freely chosen representatives met at Eidsvold and, in the face of the stern mandate of the Holy Alliance, then in session after Napoleon's abdication at Fontenoy, dared to bid defiance to the great powers and declared the independence of their country. True, the time and the circumstances were propitious for success, but the greatest factor to that end was the united front of a progressive and liberty-loving nation standing for its rights.

Norway patterned her constitution, as did France some years before, after the constitution of this western republic. It is, however, a fact that many of the fundamental principles in the Anglo-Saxon civilization came from the liberty loving nation beyond the North Sea, either directly through intercourse in peace and war, even to the extent of a political union under the great Canute and his sons, or also and still more, through the Norman conquest of 1066.

No people adopt the language and the principles of their new home-land more readily than does the Norseman of our day in this country. The seventeenth of May witnesses gatherings of patriotic remembrance, such as will take place in our own city tomorrow night, in every country and clime on the globe, for the Norseman is found living and home-building in them all. He is part and parcel of our most enlightened citizenship. He truly loves his adopted land as his chosen bride but would be recreant indeed if he did not remember his mother-land with filial veneration. In that spirit all American citizens are glad to join those of Norse

The Merrill Daily Herald and the Stevens Point Journal are pestered at the Wausau merchants for flooding Merrill and Stevens Point with 12-page bills urging people to come to Wausau to trade. The Merrill Herald says, concerning the incident:

"The past week the 'storekeepers' of Wausau flooded the cities of Tomahawk and Merrill with a lot of twelve page bills. The whole thing was conducted in the usual Wausau way. It is only Wausau stores that amount to anything, and so loyal to their own egotistic deity are they that only Wausau boys could peddle the bills—too tight to give the local youngsters a chance to peddle their bunk."

The booklet of Mr. Tittmeyer exposing Non-partisan doings is accomplishing substantial good. It should be generally read, and the committee of 44 should take the matter in hand.—Racine Journal-News.

It might be interesting to know who paid Mr. Tittmeyer's expenses, while he wrote the book in a Milwaukee hotel last winter.

Lincoln's Prophecy

President Lincoln shortly before his death, in a letter to a friend in Illinois who wrote congratulating him on the near approach of the end of the war, said:

"Yes, we may all congratulate ourselves that this cruel war is nearing its close. It has cost a vast amount of treasure and blood. The best blood of American youth has been freely offered upon the country's altar that the nation might live. It has been a trying hour indeed to the republic, but I see in the near future a crisis approaching that unnerves me, and causes me to tremble for the safety of my country. As a result of the war, corporations have been enthroned, an era of corruption in high places will follow, and the money power of the country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people until the wealth is aggregated in the hands of the few and the republic is destroyed. I feel at this moment more anxiety for the safety of my country than ever before, even in the midst of the rebellion."

name of Joseph Connell, of this city, is being prominently mentioned and receiving endorsement. Whether or not Mr. Connell would consider accepting a nomination is not known but if he could be induced to enter the field he would unquestionably prove a strong contender and, if elected, would be a credit to the district and a power in the state legislature.—Manitowoc Herald-News.

Over at Lake Geneva, pageant producers are in a pickle because of the surplus of bobbed-haired girls. Many young ladies are needed to take the parts of Indian maidens. But not
